

Somewhere in Holland
Nov. 4, 1944

Dear Folks,

This is the first chance I've had to write for a long time, as you so well know. Writing letters would be a pleasure compared to what I've been doing so don't think I've just neglected writing. We've been on the move so much and away from our extra equipment so often that I couldn't write if I wanted to.

Everything is as good as can be expected. I'm in good health and feeling fine and that means a lot. We've seen front line action and from the infantryman's viewpoint it's hell. Some day I'll tell you about the exciting experiences I'm having.

Your mail gets here and is delivered right to our fox holes. So far, none of the packages have arrived but they'll get here about Christmas I suppose. Keep writing & send all the packages you can.

So long for a while. Don't expect to hear from me too often. While there is still fighting going on the war isn't over for us. Remember that! Love, Persh